- #1 - Making the classes interactive
- #2 - Again, relating our class material to real life problems/events.
- #3 - Case studies, guest speakers, he uses a variety of approaches to teach the course.
- #4 - I believe going over our cases was very helpful, along with the peer review. I believe for each case we should also have a debate along with discussing the questions, because that helped me to understand the material. Posting the PowerPoints online was wonderful, but it would be even better if he could post them ahead of time so we could write on them in class.
- #5 - Being available via email.
- #7 - Peer review, along with the teacher review.
- #9 - He was always available to answer questions
- #11 - The case study and explaining them became very useful in relating information to real-life and applying knowledge of lessons in class and from personal experience
- #12 - I think the powerpoint are helpful in class.I would implement reading quizzes for the articles. Since we do not directly discuss them in detail every class, the reading quizzes would keep students liable for the readings. This would also allow more grades to boost the overall average. This would also be helpful since most of the tests refer to the articles that are not really discussed in depth. I would also make attendance mandatory
- #14 - bringing in professionals to speak, harvard business review.
- #15 - I thought the class was great, and I learned a lot about the management side of hotels that I otherwise would have never even considered.
- #16 - class involvement was utilized to a great degree

G21. I would recommend this instructor to a friend. Yes or no? Why?
